`http://m4m4sex.com/` is a gay personals system that targets local gay communities in a number of cities. The site is written exclusively in `mod_perl` and uses `mysql` as a backend. The only purpose of the site is to ensure that people find sex partners as efficiently as possible.

I'm impressed with how well `mod_perl` and `mysql` have held up under considerable load as more cities were added and as more users joined. It also continued to please as we re-worked the site to allow users to switch between languages (4 at this point) on-the-fly.

It all happens on vanilla x86 hardware. Everything from user signups, account maintenance, online chat, secure payment options, renewing subscriptions, reports, etc.

Hooray for `mod_perl`!
